FOR

Printing by Subscription,

A DISCOURSE Concerning the Truth of the Christian Religion; written Originally in French by Philip Lord Mornay du Plessis Marly, Governour of Saumure, and Privy Councillor to King Henry the IVth of France; and now Translated into English by Mr. Bellamy. To which will be prefix'd some Memoirs of his Lordship's Life.

THE kind Reception this Book has met with, not only in the Original but also in the Latin and other Languages into which it has been Translated, is an undoubted Argument of its uncommon Worth, and a good Plea for this present Undertaking. It was render'd into English about 130 Years ago by Sir Philip Sidney and others: And if so great a Man then thought it worthy of an English Dress, 'tis hop'd the Publick will encourage this new Attempt to Cloath it in more Modern Language; especially since Sir Philip's Translation is grown obsolete, and the Original very difficult to be procur'd.

The Character of this Noble Author is too well known to the Learned World, to need any thing to commend it. When he was Governour of Saumure and Privy Councillor to King Henry the Fourth of France, he used his utmost Endeavours to keep that Prince firm to the PROTESTANT RELIGION, but not succeeding therein, he retired from Court and apply'd himself to the Study of Divinity; and how successful he was in that Study the Reader will best judge by perusing his WORKS, especially THIS now proposed, which has deservedly been esteem'd his greatest Performance.

Whole BOOK.

CHAP. I. That all Mankind unanimously acknowledge a Supreme Being.

Chap. II. That there is but One GOD.

Chap. III. That the wisest Men in all Ages have acknowledged One GOD.

Chap. IV. That we are not able fully to comprehend what GOD is.

Chap. V. On the Trinity.

Chap. VI. That the Ancient Philosophers held the Doctrine of the Trinity.

Chap. VII. That the World was Created.

Chap. VIII. Concerning the Time when the World was Created.

Chap. IX. That the wisest Men in all Ages have acknowledged the World to be Created.

Chap. X. That GOD made the World out of nothing, or without any Præ-Existent Matter.

Chap. XI. That GOD governs the World and every thing in it, by his Over-ruling Providence.

Chap. XII. That all real and imaginary Evils are over-ruled by a Divine Providence.

Chap. XIII. That the wisest Men in all Ages have acknowledged an Over-ruling Providence, as a Medium between Fate and Fortune.

Chap. XIV. Concerning the Immortality of the Soul.

Chap. XV.

The CONTENTS.

- Chap. XV. That the Ancient Philosophers taught the Immortality of the Soul, and that that Doctrine was universally believed.
- Chap. XVI. Of the Corruption of humane Nature, Man's Fall from his Original State of Innocence, and the unhappy Occasion of it.
- Chap. XVII. That the Sentiments of the Ancients concerning Original Sin, and the Cause of it, were the same with the Moderns.
- Chap. XVIII. That GOD is Man's Supreme Good, and consequently his Chief End.
- Chap. XIX. That the wisest Men in all Ages have acknowledged GOD to be Man's Chief Good and Principal End.
- Chap. XX. That the True Religion is the surest Means to attain our Chief Good and Principal End, and of the Marks of it.
- Chap. XXI. That the Service of the living and true GOD is the First Mark of the True Religion, and that this pure Worship was establish'd in Israel.
- Chap. XXII. That the Gods of the Heathen were only Heroic Men, deify'd to perpetuate the Memory of those signal Services they had done their Country.
- Chap. XXIII. That those Spirits to whom divine Adoration was daily paid, under the Names of those departed Heroes, were Demons, i. e. Devils or Evil Spirits.
- Chap. XXIV. That in Israel the Word of GOD was the Rule of Divine Worship; and that that Rule was the Second Mark of the True Religion.
- Chap. XXV. That the whole Tenour of the Old Testament plainly demonstrates that 'twas written by Divine Inspiration.
- Chap. XXVI. That those Relations in the sacred Scripture which are most surprizing, and most liable to Censure, are confirmed by the Heathens; whose principal Objections to those Writings are here fully answered.
- Chap. XXVII. That GOD ALMIGHTY never denied the Means of Grace and Salvation to his peculiar People the Israelites, and that that inestimable Blessing is the Third Mark of the True Religion.
- Chap. XXVIII. That the Messiah who was to be God-Man, and Mediator, viz. the Eternal Son of GOD, and to assume the humane Nature, was promised by his Father in the sacred Scriptures.
- Chap. XXIX. That the time at which it was promised that the Messiah should come is elapsed, according to the Scriptures and Jewish Traditions.

Chap. XXX.

The CONTENTS:

Chap. XXX. That JESUS the Son of the Virgin Mary came at the exact Time prophesied of him in the Scriptures, and is THE CHRIST.

Chap. XXXI. In which the Objections of the Jews to our Blessed Saviour, and their Pleas for rejecting him as the true Messiah, are fully answered and confuted.

Chap. XXXII. That JESUS CHRIST was and is GOD, the Son of GOD, in opposition to the false Notions of the Heathens.

Chap. XXXIII. In which the Objections of the Heathens against JESUS CHRIST the Son of GOD are fully prov'd to be vain and groundless.

Chap. XXXIV. That the Holy Gospel contains in it the full and compleat History both of the Life and Doctrine of the blessed JESUS the Son of GOD.
